The government interior ministry Thursday released an official casualty figure listing 527 dead and 4,075 wounded. In the hardest-hit areas, bulldozers crushed still-standing walls and swept tons of debris from wide areas demolished by the quake. In Ciudad Cerdan, Rio Blanco and smaller villages, whole residential sections were being bulldozed.. Government trucks were carrying food, medicine, blankets, clothing and temporary shelter materials to the damage areas. Officials estimated some 25,000 persons have been left homeless. Bomb Rocks London's Hyde Park Area

LONDON - A bomb exploded near the Marble Arch on the edge of Hyde Park early today. Police defused a time bomb at a subway station Thursday and three firebombs blew up in the industrial city of Birmingham in a wave of bombings police linked to the Irish Republican Army (IRA). A man telephoned the British news agency Press Association saying that police should be told to cordon off 600 yards around the Marble Arch. "You have got plenty of time," he said. Police were informed and about eight minutes later a bomb exploded near the Arch. Police said the bomb exploded outside the Cumberland Hotel opposite the Marble Arch. There were no reports of casualties.

Briton Killed In Effort To Defuse Bomb

BELFAST (UPI)-A British army officer was killed in an explosion Thursday while trying to defuse one of three bombs planted in a village by four gunmen who also wounded a 13year-old boy. In Belfast, a 29-year-old Roman Catholic injured in an explosion last week died in a hospital. A unidentified girl was injured in the blast in a house near Belfast University last week along with Francis Hall, who died Thursday of his injuries. The explosion occured several days after Britain's current wave of bomb incidents began. Police said Hall and the girl were engaged in making incendiary devices similar to the kind that have been discovered in department stores in London and other parts of Britain.

Quake Jolts Colombia-Venezuela Border

BOGOTA, Colombia - A strong earthquake jarred the Andes Mountains on both sides of Colombia's frontier with Venezuela Thursday, causing momentary panic. The government said it had no immediate reports of damage or injuries although skyscrapers in Bogota swayed slightly and people fled into the streets. First reports said the quake was felt most heavily in the cities of Manizales and Cucuta near the Venezuelan border and in Sogamoso and Monteria to the north. The U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Boulder, Colo., said the quake struck mainly in an area 225 miles northeast of Bogota. The quake occured at 2:26 p.m. EDT with a magnitude of 6.0 on the open-end Richter scale. Geophysicist Waverly Person of the earthquake agency said the quake was 10 times less powerful than the earthquake that devastated Central Mexico Tuesday. There was no relationship between the two quakes, he said.

Family Arrested After Brawl With HB Police

HUNTINGTON BEACH—A family was arrested Thursday after a street brawl with police which erupted when officers tried to obtain information about a hit-run accident. Booked on charges of assaulting a police officer and interfering with arrest were Salvatore Cappello, 55, and his wife Eleanor, of 8371 Castilian Drive, and Richard Balaban, 25, of 2175 Mallul Drive, Anaheim.

A 14-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy who live at the Castilian Drive address were arrested on charges of interfering with arrest. The boy was also booked on hit-run charges. Police Sgt. Carl Vidano said he and officer Charles Poe went to the Cappello's house at 12:30 a.m. to obtain information about a misdemeanor hit-run accident in which the 17-yearold boy was thought to have been involved.

Vidano said Mrs. Cappello came out of the house and refused to allow officers to talk with the youth. When they in-

The officers radioed for emergency help which arrived in time to subdue the adults and juveniles and take them into custody.

None of the family members was injured in the brawl, police said, but officer Poe was injured when kicked by the woman, police said.

Howard Hughes Bows To British Etiquette

A London surgeon was asked to operate on Howard Hughes' hip in his hotel hideway and when he refused the billionaire recluse was "smuggled into the London Clinic" for an operation, the London Daily Express said Thursday. Hughes "ran up against the immovable force of British medical etiquette," the newspaper said. The surgeon declared "he had never operated in an hotel room and never would, no matter how high the fee."

Gary, Ind. Mayor Richard Hatcher Thursday indicated there may be subsequent meetings of elected black officials from across the country similar to the one held last weekend in the Colorado Mountains. The meeting of 16 blacks leaders was organized by Hatcher and Georgia Rep. Julian Bond to plan strategy for the 1974 national elections. Although labeled a "secret" meeting, Hatcher said such nomenclature was "a little melodramatic." He said "it was a small group meeting to discuss ways they could more efficiently carry out their responsibilities as elected officials."

Officials of the All American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio said Thursday they will not file any lawsuits in connection with the disqualification of 1973 winner James Gronen for having an illegal magnet starter on his racer. George W. Britton, chairman of AASBD, which sponsors the event, issued the statement after receiving the transcript of a letter from Robert Lange of Boulder, Colo., Gronen's uncle, in which Lange admitted it was his idea to build and install the system.

Entertainer Phil Regan had something new to worry about Thursday. The well-known Irish tenor was given a one-to-14 years prison sentence in Santa Barbara Wednesday for attempting to bribe a county supervisor. Police reported Thursday that burglars had apparently broken into the singer's luxurious home in Palm Springs this week. One officer described the house as "generally empty."

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., saying "the people want the hearings off the screen," drafted a resolution Thursday to end the Senate Watergate hearings and leave the scandal to the courts. But a spokesman for the Senate committee headed by Sen. Sam J. Irvin, D-N.C., said 90 per cent of the 14,000 letters it had received since the President's news conference Aug. 22, favored continuing the hearings.

ROBERT DOLE

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said Thursday that Congress must pass a news source protection bill to prevent the Nixon administration from lowering "an iron curtain on executive secrecy." Cranston told members of the Southwest Press Association that he expects the Nixon administration to become more 'anti-press" in the President's remaining years of office than it has been so far, in part by attempting to win approval of an Official Secrets Act.

A smiling Gov. Ronald Reagan said Thursday he is flattered by the latest Gallup Poll which shows him leading a list of 1976 Republican presidential contenders but he still has no plans to become a candidate. The nationwide poll showed Reagan and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew tied with 22 per cent each. In third place was New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller with 13 per cent. When Agnew was left off the list, Reagan ran far ahead with 32 per cent.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke Thursday scoffed at any suggestion he will bow out of the race for governor in 1974 from pressure of "kingmakers." Reinecke, in his talk before Leisure World Republican Women in Seal Beach, said, "You may have read that some wealthy Republicans are looking around for someone to run in place of Gov. Reagan when he steps down next year. But it is up to the people to back the candidate they want, not kingmakers," he said.

The widow of Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder Roberto Clemente Thursday again charged the Federal Aviation Administration and two airplane manufacturers with negligence in the crash last New Year's Eve in which Clemente and four other men died. Philip Silverman, a Washington attorney presenting Vera Clemente, said the widow had demanded $5 million damages from the U.S. government and the two companies in an action filed in U.S. District Court in San Juan, P. R.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who has held the string to taxpayers' pocketbooks thrugh his tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee since 1958, will undergo surgery today to remove a ruptured disc that threatens his legislative career. Gene Goss, an aide to Mills, said the 64-year-old Congressman was bedridden and in pain. Mills' chronic back problem led him to announce July 7 that he could quit Congress at the end of his term unless his health improved.

Los Angeles County Supervisor James A. Hayes, who suffered a cerebral artery spasm Aug. 22, was released from Long Beach Memorial Hospital Thursday saying "there's absolutely nothing wrong with me, physically or mentally." Hayes, 51, said his only instructions from his doctor were to ease up a little on his work. He told newsmen he had been working 18 hours a day before he was stricken.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1 Your birthday today: The dullest of lives now takes on an aura of drama, a quality of daily adventure, as potential talents emerge, and spiritual growth is stimulated. Those who make a determined effort succeed in transcending earlier limitations. Relationships are uneven, full of minor surprises, rewarding and annoying by turns. Today's natives tend to prudent behavior, are inclined to study psychic phenomena, unusual disciplines.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be patient and gentle with your loved ones in the probable passing moments of disagreement today. By evening all can be going along great with anticipation for a pleasant expedition.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): One-sided plans lose out and are replaced by more balanced group actions. Being stubborn would merely get you out of the general stream of social pleasures which you needn't miss at Gemini (May 21-June 20): Once the necessary routines of the day are covered, you're free to venture socially, and there's much to do, little to fret about. Younger people turn out to be surprisingly helpful.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The greatest fun arises from the most casual beginnings. A little patience on your part invites confidences and you learn much of deep interest. Romance beckons for all those who are eligible.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The way you use your time draws comment. It's easy enough for those who do not understand to criticize. Patience! Avoid firm contracts, definite promises for the moment. Conditions change

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Pursue personal ventures with enthusiasm tempered with a touch of moderation, and like as not, a pleasant surprise comes.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Speak seriously where you are genuinely concerned. You can have almost anything within reason from those you've reached. Take plenty of time; give yourself a fair chance to explain your goals.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now is your opportunity-so with whatever resources you can lay on the line, go ahead! This should be an active, prosperous day of fresh beginnings.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends are all for you, as long as they feel included in your plans. Where you have romance in mind, speak out in terms of long future. Spend time in interesting places.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Show off a bit; make yourself known in case there's anybody around who hasn't figured you out in his understanding of the local scene. A good day for renewing old acquaintances.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Family life, the needs and tensions among loved ones, should have first call on your time and attention. Influential people aid your general position, but you should be busy on your own personal concerns. Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The one thing that doesn't make it is carelessness, assuming the other fellow is going to be as skilled and courteous as you are. Home life improves, with friends and family members on the go.

Wreck Sites Yield Artifacts Of Revolution

Oceanographers at the University of Rhode Island have recovered artifacts from the area of two sunken British Revolutionary War ships in Narragansett Bay.

Dr. Foster H. Middleton, professor of ocean engineering and chief investigator for the team attempting to recover of the British warships HMS Cerebus and HMS Lark in the east passge of the bay, said that getting the necessary funds for the project is the biggest problem.

He said cannon balls, cannon and part of an oven have been recovered and after a series of electronic studies of the area an attempt will be made in the next eight months to recover more items.

Middleton said they have not recovered any material that identifies the ships, but that some of the items carry the "British Broad Arrow," which was a mark of armament in Revolutionary War days.

John McAniff, a marine scientist and a member of the recovery team, said "with the art work on the cannon there is no question of the authenticity of the find."

The two frigates were sunk several miles apart during the battle of Rhode Island in 1778 after the French joined the colonies in their fight for independence.

"We will need more money to complete the project," Middleton said. The university has voiced its reluctance to provide the necessary funds, he said, "so we hope to get the state interested.'

The two wreck sites were placed in the National Register of Historic Places to protect the artifacts.

The scientists said ballast mounts, large sections of heavy oak planking, cannons, anchors, cannon balls, ship fittings, plates, coins and remnants of furniture are probably buried in sediment at the bottom of the

Robbers Even Hit Closed-Up Service Stations

FULLERTON-Clyde Murphy, 57, of 1408 W. Amerige Ave., found that a closed service station is not a safe place to get water for his car radiator late at night.

Murphy told police that while he was attempting to get the water at Phillips 66 station, 944 W. Orangethorpe Ave., at 10:55 p.m. Wednesďay, a juvenile armed with a small automatic gun demanded his billfold. The suspect took $28 from the walleg and handed it back to the victim after first wiping off fingerprints with his shirttail. The suspect fled on foot.

'Up, Up, Away' As Hot Air Balloon Soars

"Here's the golden rule of hot air ballooning," said pilot Dan Stone, as a propane blow torch pumped air into a large, limp pile of red nylon and transformed it into a seven-story high balloon: "Stay away from power lines."

As a team of six men steadied the wavering five-foot square gondola in front of several thousand persons at Kings Island Amusement Park, Stone stepped in and yelled, "Let 'er go."

The gondola—with only a waist-high metal rail around the sides—inched off the asphalt liftoff area. Another gust of hot air was pumped into the balloon and the craft climbed quickly.

Within seconds the balloon was 300 feet into the air, the cheering and screaming of the crowd no longer audible. Moving at cloud speed—seven miles per hour this particular evening—the balloon glided with an eerie silence.

The gondola did not rock and the ride was silky smooth.

Once every 30 seconds, Stone pulled on the propane "blast valve" and forced a new stream of hot air to the top of the balloon, which made it rise steadily and smoothly. "I can make it climb a thousand feet a minute," said Stone, 27, who runs a hot air balloon school in Columbus.

Soon the balloon was at 1,000 feet. The amusement park became tiny behind us as the balloon glided northeast over beautifully wooded southwest Ohio.

"There's not much to flying one of these things," he said as he counteracted the pull of gravity by opening the blast valve again. "Avoid power lines and tree tops and think ahead—at least 15 seconds ahead. There's a time lag of 15 seconds between the time you pull the blast valve and the time it takes the new hot air to reach the top of the ballon."

Stone's pulls on the blast valve, became infrequent and the balloon began descending. At 100 feet Stone spotted the four-man pickup crew standing alongside a road.

"We're going to put her down right here," yelled Stone, as he tossed down a rope to the crew. By the time the crew had caught and tightened the line, the balloon was directly above the two-lane concrete highway, with the gondola hanging 50 feet above the road.

Cars stopped along the road as the crew pulled the balloon and its passengers back to a grassy area along the highway.

The gondola kissed the ground gently.

Some passing motorists thought the craft had just crashed.

"Was there anybody hurt?"

asked one.
"No," a crewman replied.
"We just let a balloon down."

Meat Labelers Told To Drop 'Fancy' Names

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) —
The Department of Consumer Protection has released new labeling regulations directing butchers to tell it like it is.

The regulations, published this week in the Connecticut Law Journal, give detailed instructions on how meat cuts the made and remed are to be made and named.

The main point is that all cuts of cattle, pork, and lamb are to be displayed with a conspicuous label telling exactly what the cut is. The label must also tell whether the bone is removed or still remains in the cut

Certain display names are strictly prohibited, as being "fanciful names." These include such terms as "his and her steaks," "chicken steak" and others.

Various non-technical names not considered fanciful are permitted, such as "pot roast" or "delmonico steak," provided the regulation name of the cut appears ahead of and equal in size to the common name.

The regulations apply both to shelf labeling and to newspaper and broadcast advertising. Exemptions may be granted for kosher meats or other possible ethnic preferences.

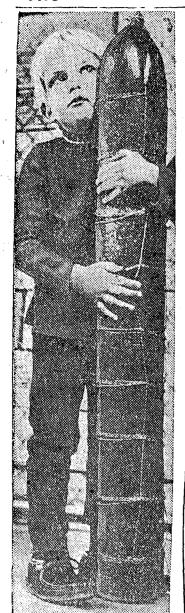

The regulations were adopted earlier in the year and actually became effective Aug. 6. However, retailers are being allowed 60 days from that date to comply with the regulations.

Non-Stick Pots, Pans 'Don't Put Iron In Diet'

CHICAGO (UPI) -Technology has brought about non-stick pots and pans, but it may also have brought a significant national health problem.

Dr. Paul Saltman of the University of California, San Diego said that 15 to 20 per cent of the U.S. population suffer from some degree of iron deficiency.

"This is not trivial," Saltman said. "When you become anemic, your resistance to infection goes way, way down. People who are anemic are far more prone to infectious diseases, colds, viruses, bacterial infections and such."

One problem, he said, was that iron pots and pans, no longer in use, had provided about half of each individual's iron supply.

"It's remarkable how technology has given us the stickless Teflon or the light aluminum frying pan and has taken away this normal source of dietary (iron) intake," Saltman said. But Saltman did not advocate the revival of cast iron cockware.

"We've become a convenience nation and I don't think people will (return to cast iron cookware) unless they think strongly about it," he said.

"My recommendation is a more thoughtful way of fortifying bulk foods in the population. That's the way to go," he said. Fortification of "fad foods," he said, would be the key to preventing anemic children. He said continental bakeries have fortified a "Twinkie" so that two of the pastries and a glass of milk provided all necessary protein, iron and other required substances.

"That, to me, made enormous sense. Rather than sit and gripe at your kids saying shut up and drink your milk and eat your salad' you say 'drink the Coke, kid, have a malt, have a Twinkie' and

Will Appear In Newspaper

SANTA ANA—The city's "newsletter" will be published in a weekly newspaper, The Central County Gazette, monthly beginning with the paper's Sept. 19 edition, according to acting city manager Tom Andrusky.

He reported Wednesday that "some articles" will be published in both English and Spanish. The Gazette, whch is based in Orange, is extending its circulation throughout this city.

The city council recently voted to award the paper a sixmonth trial contract for $20,000. The pact "will save taxpayers between $5,000 and $7,000" on the basis of the city's current cost for publishing and distributing the "newsletter," said An-ঝrusky.

Dear Reader-You didn't tell me how old you are or a number of other facts that are important. I would guess from your letter that you may indeed have some changes that are causing trouble with your memory. Then, there is always the possibility that you have some abnormal function of the nerve pathways in the brain that's related to speech. There are several ways this can happen.

I'm sure you know that an individual who has a stroke that hits one area of the brain can make it impossible for him to speak at all. The speech area is a relatively small spot on the surface of the brain. It is connected to many other inputs, however, that influence speech. Finally, the nervous system has to work properly even to enable the tongue, lips and speech organs to function adequately.

You've asked me what kind of a doctor to see, and about the best advice I can give you is to see if you can be referred to a neurology specialist. These are individuals who are trained specifically in localizing which areas of the brain are not functioning properly, if that should be the case. Parking Sought For 'Minster Home Project

WESTMINSTER-A committee attempting to resolve the parking problem in Westminster Village has come up with a little over 100 off-street parking

Location of the proposed parking pads, which would call for sacrificing green area in the new development, has been forwarded to representatives of Shapell Industries, who now are preparing a plan that will be submitted to the city for approval.

The lack of parking in the patio home portion of the development was first brought to the council's attention at its Aug. 14 meeting.

A petition signed by over 50 residents complained that the plan for guest parking would be far from adequate for the 164 homes, especially since the houses have no driveways.

Residents also requested and won a delay on the posting of "no parking" signs in the tract until off-street parking could be

The city's planning department estimates that Irvine's current population "is approaching 28,000."

The council also voted to keep the same property tax rate as last year, 33 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. A $4.2 million operational and capital improvement budget for the 973-74 fiscal year was approved. Last year's budget was $1.6

Councilmen authorized a contract with the county fire department to provide emergency ambulance service for the city, beginning Nov. 1 at a monthly cost "not to exceed" $6,735. The county will provide paramedics to handle the emergency calls, but private ambulance services still will be used for non-emergency calls.

Street Study Plan Rejected At 'Minster

WESTMINSTER—A proposal for a two-year street maintenance study that would have cost the city $58,250 was rejected by the council this week.

Submitted by Engineered Serviceability Program of Los Angeles, the proposal called for deflection testing and the extraction of pavement and base samples to determine structural strength of city streets.

The firm then would compile its recommendations for the improvement and priority need for each street in the program.

According to City Administrator Robert Runtley, the study would provide the city information that would save a considerable amount of money on future street maintenance.

But Mayor Philip Anthony said he was concerned that the study would become outdated in just a few years and it would be better to spread the study out over a period of years using the expertise of the city staff.

Councilwoman Joy Neugebauer agreed that the project should be done in-house.

"I think it is a little premature to fund a study of this type at this cost at this time," she

Navigational Aides Failed, Says Airline

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navigational aides were corrected on a Delta Airlines DC9 in response to pilot complaints "two to four days" before it crashed at Boston, the airline said in response to government experts who recommended bad weather restrictions on some of Delta's jets.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) agreed with Delta it saw no need for restrictions on Delta's 14 DC9s.

In a recommendation to the FAA Wednesday, the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) singled out the DC9 fleet which Delta acquired in a merger with Northeast Airlines and subsequently modified.

One of the modified DC9 jetliners crashed in fog July 31 at Boston's Logan Airport, killing 88 persons.

An NSTB spokesman said the board wanted the planes to conform to strict landing and takeoff altitude minimums during bad weather.

An FAA spokesman said in response that the agency saw no need to impose any restrictions, explaining it was "not felt that there is any evidence of failure of such a nature to warrant any imposition of operational restrictions."

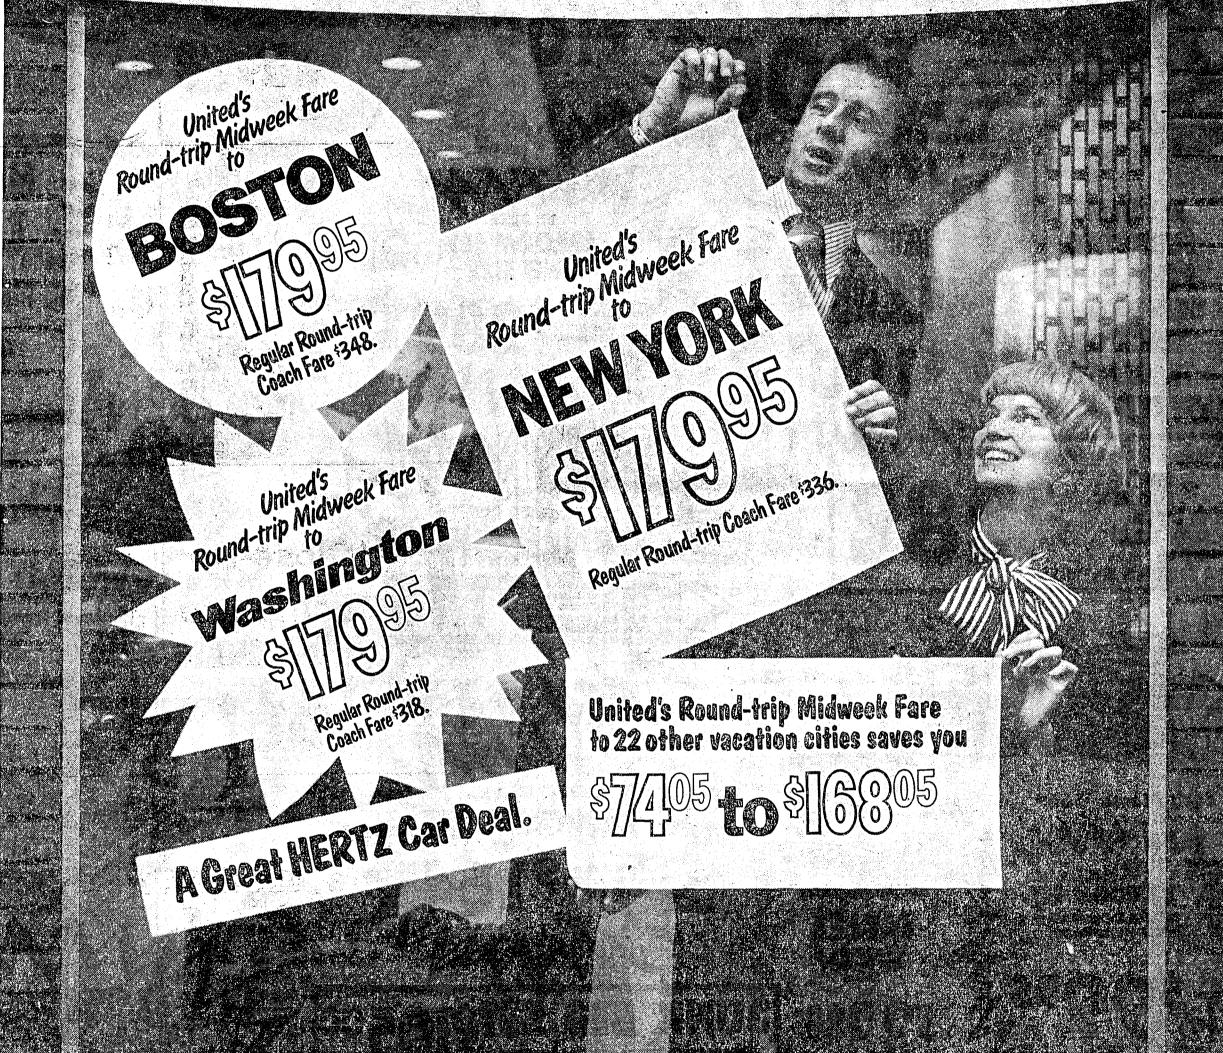

The NTSB said an investigation showed that the maintenance records of the plane which crashed at Boston showed "numerous" pilot complaints about the plane's navigational aides after it underwent modification.

A Delta spokesman acknowledged there had been the complaints "two to four days", before the Boston crash but said that "corrective action" had been taken which conformed to FAA regulations, and the plane had subsequently made 40 landings without logged complaint.

FAA regional headquarters in Atlanta, headquarters of Delta, said that a team of FAA inspectors carried out an investigation and "in their judgment nothing in the modification program could have caused spurious signals or failures in the flight direction navigational equipment."

Surplus School Site To Be Sold By Board

SANTA ANA-A resolution of intention to sell the 11-acre Hayward school site in south Santa Ana was unanimously approved by four trustees of Sana Ana Unified School District attending a board session this week.

The site, purchased in 1964 for $237,000 by a former board and school administration as a pos-, sible school location, will go on the auction block at a beginning price of $250,000.

The acreage is near two other elementary school sites, Borchard and Jefferson, and is located at what would be extensions of Bear and Alton streets.

District administrator Howard Harrison has noted that "the soil conditions (at the site) care not amenable to school construction."

Harrison said the site had been offered for sale twice be-"once for $262,500 and again for $300,000" without "ac-_ceptable offers."

Trustee Elizabeth Robertson had questioned the bid starting price suggested by Harrison Tuesday, claiming, "We ought to be talking about $400,000."

Charter City Report Due By Dec. 1

GARDEN GROVE-The chamber of commerce charter task force, which is investigating a proposal that this general law city become a charter city, told the council here this week that its report would be ready about Dec. 1.

Mayor Bernard Adams earlier had suggested the council place the issue on next April's ballot without waiting for the citizens committee to report.

But chairman Leonard Holland said the committee was still working on the "legal and practical" implications of such a change.

A written report from the committee said that 11 of the original 24 volunteers for the committee still were working on the problem.

Seven study groups are exploring 28 areas of city government to evaluate the difference between the two forms of gov-

Capo Requests County Build Animal Shelter

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO-The city council has passed a resolution urging the board of supervisors to construct an animal control shelter in the south end of the county and instructed the staff to send the resolution to other communities soliciting their support.

The neighboring communities will be asked to petition the supervisors with requests for the shelter.

The resolution was a response to a similar resolution adopted recently by San Clemente. The county has set aside $150,000 for the land but no funds have been appropriated for construction of the shelter. The nearest shelter is in Orange.

Mighty Amazon

The Amazon River, winding 4,000 miles to the Atlantic, almost cuts South America in two. The river's source, just below the backbone of the Andes in southern Peru, is only 97.5 miles from the Pacific Ocean.

WORRY CLINIC George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Rachel's confession shows how the daily newspapers have "jumped the gun" regarding marriage counseling! Only recently have medical schools and seminaries begun to teach their students such vital functions, but newspapers have pioneered such advice for 35

CASE Y-505: Rachel Q., aged 37, is a beautiful brunette who asked to talk with me after my Valentine Tea address last

"Dr. Crane," she said, "I might have ruined my happy home if it hadn't been for reading your 'Worry Clinic.'

"For my husband is a vital, dynamic type who travels a lot as a salesman.

"And we have two wonderful children in high school. "But I had grown quite heavy, for I was 25 pounds above my weight on my wedding day. "While attending a convention in Chicago, my husband had a brief affair with a hostess that the firm had imported with a crowd of other girls to entertain the salesmen. "Well, I was crushed and felt I couldn't live with him any more, though he protested he loved me truly and was merely sexually infatuated with his dance partner.

The very next day, in your column, you warned wives not to rush into such unwarranted divorces as I was threatening to

"For you pointed out that men differ greatly from women not only in their much greater erotic appetite.

"But also in how they look at

"For you said a man combines true love with sex when he places a wedding ring on his wife's finger.

"But he can have an affair with other women without any semblance of love.

"In fact, you said many rapists assault women; then stab them or kill them afterwards.

"My husband pointed out your column that night in our newspaper and told me to read it thoroughly, for he said it stated the true facts.

"You had said, too, that a man can enjoy another woman's cooking without having any love for her.

"So you also warned that a man can enjoy sex with another woman than his wife, without having any love for his paramour.
"Well, I began to realize that you were right, for I knew my sexual ardor for my husband wasn't nearly as great as his, though I loved him with all my

"And when I looked in the mirror, I saw that I now resembled a good old motherly soul (as you describe such fat wives) but not a seductive siren.

"So I decided maybe I was largely at fault for driving my husband into his outside affair. "Previously, I had laughed at your comment that it is boudoir cheesecake that sirens employ, rather than roast beef, to win husbands away from their

"So I went on your 10-day diet and then continued till I had regained my honeymoon figure.

"Maybe this one-night affair my husband had with this hostess actually has insured our future greater happiness.

For now I know how to hold his affection and keep a happy home for our children, "I shudder at how close I came to demanding a divorce. "Dr. Crane, that one column of yours tipped the scales and has kept my home intact.

"And I'm sure thousands of other marriages have also been saved by the same frank marriage counsel newspapers offer."

Send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

How to get a clearance price on the second largest selling luxury car in America: Buya:Buick Electra:now.

It's that time of year.

Time for the year-end sales, the close-outs, the clean-ups. The 1974's will be here before long and, to help make room, your Buick dealer, like just about everyone else, is having a clearance sale.

But there's a difference between a clearance sale on Buicks, and a clearance sale on something else. That difference is the product. And when the product is Buick Electra, that makes it a very big difference. After all, look at what Electra has going

Why Electra is a particularly good buy.

Partially because of what Electra gives you. Its refined exterior styling, obviously. Its roomy and elegantly appointed interior. Its standard turbo Hydra-matic transmission. Its standard power front disc brakes and variable ratio power steering. And a host of other standard niceties that help make the Electra such an outstanding automobile. And then there's value. For Electra's kind of luxury you could spend a lot more. But we think that's a lot to ask when you consider how much Electra has to offer. In other words, it's an exceptionally good investment.

About Electra's popularity.

Considering what Electra offers, and the excellent value it represents, it's no wonder that it's the second largest selling luxury car in America. Which means a lot of people agree with us that it's a good buy any time of the year.

But right now, with the ending of 1973 model year production, Electra is an even better buy because Buick dealers are giving clearance deals on every Electra in stock.

So think about it. If you're looking for a luxury car, you don't have to look any further than Buick Electra. Or pay any more.

Now that we're having a clearance sale, wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Court Battle Looms Over Tract Proposal

By JERRY CHANEY Register Staff Writer

BUENA PARK-Residents of this city's swank Bellehurst section may go to court if the Fullerton City Council approves a proposed housing development next to them, it has been

Mrs. Celeste Wickstrom, one of the more active opponents when the proposal went before the Fullerton Planning Commission recently said some Bellehurst residents are "ready to go to court tomorrow."

However, siad Mrs. Wickstrom, she favors waiting to see what the city council does. The planning commission approved the development by a 4-2 vote

The development proposed by the William Lyon Co., calls for construction of 263 dwelling units on 108 acres located west of Gilbert Street and north of Malvern Avenue, adjacent to the Buena Park city line.

Some of the development would abut Bellehurst and part would be a virtual "island" in the Los Coyotes County Club golf course.

An estimated 100 Bellehurst residents attended the planning commission hearing on the proposal, and another crowd is expected when the Fullerton council holds its hearing Sept.

Mrs. Wickstrom said she and other Bellehurst residents feel the development calls for smaller-than-desirable single family residences in a non-island area and that proposed grading would detract from the area's attractiveness.

"We feel it (the development) would lower our property values, and we feel we have every right to be concerned. We've made an investment," said Mrs. Wickstrom.

The Lyon Co. proposal calls for constructing 341 single-family homes on 5,000-square-foot lots in the non-island area. Townhouses would be built in the island portion.

Fullerton junior planner Gilbert Lee said the island area is already flat and that about 80 per cent of the non-island area was graded by previous develo-

"I don't feel that the proposed grading (by Lyon) would make a substantial change in the topography," Lee stated.

Buena Park councilmen have expressed unanimous opposition to the plan, declaring that one objection is the traffic circulation plan. Ken Griffith of Buena Park's planning department said an examination of the development is underway, but no action has been recommended.

Policies Set For Schools In District

SANTA ANA-Four "policy" matters affecting Santa Ana Unified School District operation and discipline of pupils by teachers were approved this week by trustees. Included were decisions regarding the identification of persons entering district campuses.

Also approved were items regarding maternity absence for employes and the development of staff personnel.

New policy clause 5148.1 outlines the duty of certificated employes to maintain order.

Teachers now "have an affirmative duty to take positive action to prevent, deter and intercede in any case where it appears that disorderly or dangerous activities are occurring or it may be anticipated that physical injury might result."

The new policy also notes that certificated personnel are "privileged to exercise the same degree of physical control over a pupil that a parent would he legally privileged to exercise, and the only limitations are that physical control shall not exceed that reasonable necessary for the protection of health, safety, property and the maintenance of order." Administrators noted that employe organization had filed objections to only one of the policy decisions: the two paragraphs outlining campus identification requirements.

BERLIN (UPI) -There's been such a rush to recognize East Germany these days it's getting hard for foreign governments to find sites for their embassies.

Eastern sources said more than 1,000 bricklayers and other construction workers have been sent to East Berlin to build embassies and homes for foreign diplomats.

The latest nation to need space is the United States. A State Department team has begun talks in East Berlin on a site for an embassy and corresponding technical mat-

Diplomatic sources said the United States would begin final talks on recognition next month and establish ties with East Germany this year barring any unexpected hitches.

Only 33 nations had recognized the German Democratic Republic until last November, but the figure has increased to more than 90 in the short time since then.

Sources said the government has given the highest priority to East Berlin construction, postponing projects in other parts

FV May Appeal Court Order To OK Tract Map

FOUNTAIN VALLEY—When it goes into session at 8 p.m. Tuesday the city council will decide whether to appeal a Superior Court ruling ordering it to approve a tentative tract map without the customary park fees.

The ruling was handed down Aug. 24 by Judge Raymond Thompson in a dispute between the city and George Holstein III of Costa Mesa, developer of the 1,200-home Green Valley project across Warner Avenue from Mile Square Park.

To date, Holstein has secured city approval for approximately 1,100 condominiums and single family dwellings in his Green Valley project. In the process, said City Manager James Neal, the builder paid the city almost $40,000 in park fees. It is customary for cities to charge a developer certain amounts of money, based upon the number of homes proposed, with the funds being used by the city to develop park sites within the new home tract.

In April, 1973, Holstein sought approval of a tentative tract map for the final 61 units in Green Valley, each to have a $,000-square-foot lot. The city changed the plan to 49 units with 7,200-square foot lots, the minimum under city standards. In addition, Fountain Valley demanded another $20,000 in park

The procedure was too much for the developer, and Holstein took the matter to court, claiming that two-thirds of almost $60,000 in "park and beautification fees" were "illegal and unlawfully opposed because there was no authority for such fees and because such fees appeared to be arbitrary and unreasonable."

Holstein further claimed that payment of the fees was a condition of approval of his track maps.

Judge Thompson evidently agreed with the developer's contentions, and has ordered the city council Tuesday to approve Holstein's original final tract map of the last 61 units, and to not demand any further park fees.

Neal said City Atty. Tom Woodruff will provide the council with a legal opinion Tuesday night, so that body can decide whether to appeal Judge Thompson's ruling.

In addition to his suit being considered Tuesday night, Holstein has a nother pending against the city. He is suing for $64,000 in damages, claiming Fountain Valley "acted unconstitutionally by requiring us to reduce our development from 61 units to 49 units." No court date has been set on the second suit.

Still angered by the treatment given him by Fountain Valley city officials, Holstein said Wednesday he intends to file still another complaint against the city. "The failure of the city council to approve the map when submitted on July 3," said the developer, "has cost several thousands of dollars in direct and indirect costs. These damages shall be litigated at a later date."

Judge Thompson has given the city until Sept. 8 to comply with his order.

The 'Real Me' Is Beautiful

@ 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc. DEAR ABBY: I have a 22-year-old college-educated granddaughter who looks like a little old lady from the hills of Tennessee. She doesn't wear a drop of makeup! And her hair, which is straight as a poker, she brushes straight down, or pins up on top of her head like a charwoman. She wears funny little wire-framed glasses. I never see her in anything but blue jeans, or a gingham apron, suitable for a

This change came about during her sophomore year at college. She's an honor student and never got mixed up with drugs. What is the matter with this child? Is she punishing her mother who is a beautiful woman and loves beauty? Or is she punishing her father who is rich and would buy her anything she wants?

BEWILDERED GRANDMA

DEAR BEWILDERED: Nothing is the matter with her. She's making a statement: "Accept me, unadorned. Please take the time and effort to discover the real me!"

Look closely, Grandma, you might find a very beautiful person behind those little wire-framed glasses.

DEAR ABBY: Help! Maybe if our neighbors see this in print they might take the HINT.

Our neighbor's divorced daughter, with her two small undisciplined children [ages 2 and 4] lives right next door to us. The problem: This mother gets these children up at 7 a. m. and sends them outside to play. They play with very noisy toys, also scream and yell at the top of their lungs. This continues all day long. Believe me, it is enough to "wake the dead."

My husband and I have a business that keeps us up late at night, and we would like to sleep until at least 9

I know people write to you complaining about barking dogs, but what about barking children? Sign this, WISH THEY WOULD MOVE

DEAR WISH: A hint won't help. TELL your neighbors that you would appreciate it if they supervised the children at indoor play until at least 9 a. m. because you need your rest. And don't be bashful. They probably send the kids outside so THEY can go back to bed.

 DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column from a woman who visited her sister in Omaha, and couldn't sleep because this sister had a grandfather clock in the hall which went "ding, dong, and bong" every half hour. Well, that reminded me of my own story:

· After I married, I moved to a distant state. My own dear mother came to visit me every summer. She'd stay the whole month of June. We had a Westminster clock which had been in my husband's family for four generations, and my husband had been hearing those chimes ever since he was a baby.

Mother complained that the chimes kept her awake, so I persuaded my husband to turn off the chimes during

My husband had become so accustomed to hearing those chimes that he couldn't fall asleep without them. Abby, sometimes he'd toss and turn until 5 a. m.

Well, after six years of Mother's June visits, we had five children-all with birthdays in March!

So, tell that lady to get some ear plugs so her sister's chimes won't bother her. Or better yet, to get a chiming clock for her own home, and get used to it.

Newell Feels West Will Play Again

"Jerry West Ponders Retirement," the headlines thunder, and the all-pro guard of the Los Angeles Lakers admits there's some truth in what they say. "I'll make up my mind whether to play again in two or three weeks," West tells you.

But the general manager of the Lakers, Pete Newell, was in Registerland yesterday and he wasn't exactly shaking like an aspin. "I think he'll play another season at least," Newell said at Anaheim where he was among those on the program of the weekly Lunch Bunch session.

"Jerry has another year to go on his contract, and we feel he will honor it," Newell declared. "You know, about this time of the year, veteran basketball players have misgivings about that long season. The training camp always is ex-

PETE NEWELL hausting for the men who have been through the ordeal so many times. It would be too bad if Jerry retires now. He's a veteran but he still is at the top of his game which, as you know, is perhaps the best-ever. If he has slowed down it certainly isn't noticeable."

SIGNS CLUB'S NO. 1 PICK

Newell, who was late at Anaheim Stadium because he was successfully completing contract negotiations with the Lakers' No. 1 draft choice, Kermit Washington of American University, also thinks Wilt Chamberlain will be back at The Forum. There are whispers Chamberlain will jump to the rival American Basketball Assn. club at San Diego.

Says Newell: "His contract with us has expired but it has a clause which really has another season to run. I'm sure he'll be back. We need him. He's a dedicated athlete, truly a defensive giant, and a durable one who plays every game every Newell scoffs at reports that Gail Goodrich and Happy Hairston are going to Portland for Sidney Wicks. "If I made a trade like that all our women fans would run me out of town," Pete joshed. Who decides on draft selections in the NBA?

"No single person on the Lakers," Newell says. "Coach (Bill) Sharman gets together with our scouts and they make a collective decision."

If Jerry West DOES retire, who takes his place?

PRICE: 'COMING SUPER STAR'

"I refer you to coach Sharman. We do have an outstanding youngster in Jim Price. He's not in West's class now but we think he has the tools to become a superstar."

Will Chamberlain's explosive book cause unrest on the club? Newell: "The Lakers won't let it bother them. Pros are pros and know the score." Mary Decker, the incredible little 14-year-old Garden Grove-Orange distance runner, made a hit when she appeared with the dedicated coach (Don DeNoon) who developed her into a world class athlete. Little Mary had little to say about the European race in which she outkicked two Russian Olympians. "I liked Russia but liked the U.S. better," she observed. How long does she plan to compete? "Until the race is over," she laughed.

Miss Decker, who enrolls as a freshman at Orange High School next week, is a member of the Blue Angels who are engaged in a ticket selling campaign for the Angels-Oakland game at Anaheim Stadium Sept. 5. The organization, composed of girls from 6 to 16, will benefit from the pre-sale. The AAU champion Blue Angels are to give a 7:30 pre-game exhibition of their talent.

Program chairman Jack Paepke told Mary not to be afraid of a microphone. "All great athletes have that nervous feeling before their event," he noted.

WALTER SHANNON AND SCOUTING

One of the best of the year, the program introduced the Angels' new director of scouting, Walter Shannon. GM Harry Dalton brought him out from the Baltimore Orioles.

Shannon said his primary duty is to find scouts who can predict young talent. "The mark of a good scout is to adjudge young players who will get better," Shannon said. Branch Rickey, for whom I worked in St. Louis, always considered himself first of all — a scout. Our future here will be determined by our scouts in the field. The Dodgers reflect good scouting."

Cracked Paepke: "They aren't so great; they kept me seven years before they found I couldn't cut

Asked about No. 1 draft choice Bill Taylor, the Georgia high school kid recently signed, Shannon said: "We picked him because of his bat. As you know, we are looking to improve our attack." (Shannon's admission drew applause).

Shannon said the weakest part of the current Angel talent in the minors is catching. "If you know of a good catcher don't tell Rosey (Gilhousen) but tell me." Gilhousen of the Kansas City Royals was in the house.

LASORDA DISCUSSES FOX FIGHT

Another guest was Tom Lasorda, third base coach of the Dodgers who discussed his recent "fight" with manager Charley Fox of the San Francisco Giants. "I managed against Fox in the minors of five years," Lasorda said. "I don't like him and I don't like the Giants. Our recent beef, though, started around the batting cage. I was mad because a San Francisco pitcher had decked Andy Messersmith the day before and I said some pointed things to a Giant' pitcher. Fox got sore and made something of it, and told me not to talk to his pitchers. I told him I would talk to them anytime I wanted. First thing you know we were mixing. I had heard Fox knew judo but soon learned he didn't so I got in a couple of licks before (Please Turn To Page E-5)

Billy Martin Ordered Spitball Pitches

Billy Martin, saying he wanted to bring the illegal pitch controversy to a head, admitted Thursday night he ordered pitchers Joe' Coleman and Fred Scherman to throw vaseline balls against the Cleveland Indians.

Martin's action was aimed at showing up the Indians' Gaylord Perry, who has been accused of throwing vaseline balls and other illegal pitches. Perry, who blanked the Tigers on six hits 3-0 Thursday night, admitted in a recent magazine article that he had thrown illegal pitches up until a few seasons ago but said he no longer employed such methods.

Only last Sunday Jim Merritt of the Texas Rangers admitted he threw a spitball against the and Merritt's remark caused him to be fined by American League President Joe Cronin. Bill Lee of the Red Sox also jumped on the bandwagon a few days later and confessed that he, too, used a spitter.

"I've never thrown one in a game before," Coleman said, "but I know how to throw it. I thought I threw some pretty good ones."

DALLENBACH AND RUTHERFORD WIN 100-MILE QUALIFYING RACES FOR SUNDAY'S CALIFORNIA 500.

AND BOTH WIN DATSUN LI'L HUSTLERS.

Seen in the Winner's Circle at Ontario Motor Speedway are Johnny Rutherford and Wally Dallenbach (left to right), winners of the two 100-mile qualifying races for Sunday's California 500. Not only did they win a preferred position, but they each take home a Datsun Li'l Hustler, America's Number One Selling Small Truck. And, of course, they're in the running for the Datsun 240-Z official pace car that goes to Sunday's 500 winner.

The Z is top of the Datsun line. The pacesetter. A GT car that has it all, including a price you can live with. The car Road & Track calls "America's best-selling sports car." The Li'l Hustler is a worthy member of Datsun's lineup, too. Winner in its class in the tortuous, fiendish Baja 500. Its powerful overhead cam engine gets around 25 miles to the gallon. Its twostage heavy-duty suspension smoothes the roughest roads. And there's plenty of room in its well-appointed, comfortable cab. Altogether, a great little truck for work or play.

Your Southern California Datsun Dealer suggests you see the California 500 this Sunday. And, to make it a perfect weekend, visit his showroom Saturday, and take a Datsun test drive.

Asked about the major Angels-Dodgers trade of last winter, Lasorda said he thought it had been beneficial to both sides. "We got one of the best and most aggressive pitchers in the business (Messersmith) and the Angels got one of the best youngsters in baseball in Bobby Valentine. Bobby played for me several years and he's a great ambassador for baseball as well as a good player."

Cracked Jack Paepke, who doubles in brass as the Angels' speaker bureau representative: "When I was a Dodger they praised me for my hustle because I always was the first guy at the ball park. The real reason I got there early was to make sure they didn't give my uniform to anybody."

failed to appear for games here Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The Reds issued a statement around noon Thursday, saying if Tolan was not on a 6 p.m. team flight to San Diego he would face further discipline from the club and shortly afterward, the Reds said Tolan elephoned the club's office at Riverfront Stadium.

"Tolan called the Reds office, but he refused to say where he was calling from," said Reds publicist Jim Ferguson. "He talked with Dick Wagner, the assistant to Reds President Bob Howsam.

"Tolan was informed of our statement but he said he could not be back in Cincinnati by 6 p.m. from wherever it was he was calling from," Ferguson said. "Tolan was then given permission to join the team in San Diego, providing he reports onight. He agreed to do that."

Ferguson said he did not know what prompted Tolan's call and did not know if Tolan had heard about the Reds' statement, which had been released only a short time before Tolan's call was received. In the statement issued before Tolan's phone call, the Reds said they had "done everything we can think of to contact Tolan."

Survey Shows Lake Fishing Varied, Funny

By CHUCK GARRISON Register Outdoor Writer

Ask fishermen what they think of fishing in any particular lake and the responses are bound to be widely varied -sometimes serious; sometimes derogatory; even funny.

Take popular lakes Mead and Mohave, located on the Colorado River between Nevada and Arizona and frequently visited by Orange County anglers.

Each year, the Fisheries Division of the Nevada Department of Fish and Game mails out a questinnaire to 0 per cent of the anglers who fished in the state, requesting information on where they fished and for how many days. There is also a space

Here are a few examples of anglers' comments as they pertain to Mead and Mohave: "Stop night fishing on Overton Arm of Lake Mead and give the sports fisherman a chance." (A number of replies contained this comment.)

"Lake Mead is fun to fish but they have too strict rules." (Sent in by a Salt Lake City. Utah angler.) "Fishing is BAD, BAD, BAD." "Non-resident licenses are too expensive, particularly for the shore angler." (Sent in by angler from Ohio.) "Where are all the fish? We had to take a walk through the fish hatchery to see some." "Caught about 50 bass in 10 trips. Still good fishing for a good fisherman. Enjoy lake very much." "Have been fishing Lake Mead for 27 years—and can say, the last three years have been the best since 1958." "We wish we could catch a few bass."

"Can't afford a boat and shooting. fishing from shore is no good."

"Water skiing should be restricted to certain areas of the lake."

Comments and suggestions covered a number of areas related to fishing, camping and boat use on Lake Mead and Lake Mohave, but certain thoughts and ideas were more prevalent than others. For ex-

It appears that female anglers enjoy their outings more than men. Judging from their comments, they rate their success on the total outdoor experience rather than on the number of fish they catch.

Many comments were made about water skiers and their disregard for anglers. Suggestions range from exclusion to zoning to limiting of hours within the days.

Many anglers who fish from shore feel that the best fishing is available only to those with boats throughout most of the vear.

Dove Hunt Forecast

California's 973 dove hunting season will open Saturday, and prospects in the southeastern desert areas of the state are the best in years. The Department of Fish and Game says prime hunting opportunities should be found in Imperial Valley and the Palo Verde Valley along the Colorado River.

In Imperial Valley, DFG wardens have observed good populations of doves along the All-American Canal, north on the East Highline Canal and in the fields east of Holtville.

Disced grain fields south of Westmoreland also currently contain good numbers of doves, and fields along the Colorado River from the Bard-Winterhaven area north to Blythe could provide good

Most populations of doves in Orange and Riverside counties are on private land, but permission to hunt may be obtained in some casees. Poor results are expected in the San Bernardino Mountains, based on reports gathered from the Big Bear Lake area.

This year's 46-day split sea son continues through Sunday, Sept. 30, then reopens Saturday and runs through Sunday, Dec. 9.

Shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset and a daily bag and possession limit of 10 birds will be allowed, with 20 birds allowed in possession after opening day.

Albacore Hit

Albacore reappeared in the fish counts of Morro Bay landings earlier this week, with both Brebe's Landing and Virg's Landing reporting that calm weather has finally allowed partyboats to work out 65 miles where 20- to 35pound albacore are being caught.

Top catches have ranged from two to four fish per rod. Meanwhile, San Diego and Orange County landing operators and skippers have all but given up hope that albacore will appear here locally.

A few openings still exist in the free Hunter Safety Clinic to be held at the old site of the Southcoast Gun Club on Sept. 15.

"I went for almost four years without catching a Whopper Club (12 lbs. or heavier) catfish," Hatfield explained. "Now I've been lucky enough to find them."

In the past three weeks Hatfield has wrestled in no less than four Whopper Club catfish, his latest channel "cat" being a 14-lb. 2-oz. giant. His other big recent catches have weighed 16-0, 17-12 and 18-0.

According to Mrs. Alice Carlson at the lake tackle shop, Hatfield's "secret" is to use stink bait in the Santiago Flats area of the lake.

So far, 15 catfish over 12 lbs. have been taken at the lake and registered in the Whopper Club trophy awards

U.S. National Official Denies Report Bank '$100 Million Short'

By ANTHONY GENTLE Register Financial Writer Branding it a "malicious lie," a spokesman for U.S. National Bank (USNB) in San Diego Thursday vigorously denied what he called vicious street rumors that merger talks with United California Bank (UCB) officials have been terminated because USNB allegedly is $100 million short." "It just isn't true...any of it." he stated flatly, saying that efforts to track down the rumor apparently put its source either in San Diego or in the eastern part of the U.S. The spokesman said that talks about potential merger with UCB have been in progress and (at that time) "perhaps are still going on." But, he said, the UCB discussion is just one of many undertaken over the years with other banking institutions. "Over the past 40 years," he said, "U.S. National, like most banks, has been approached many times by other financial institutions regarding merg-

Attempts to contact USNB president James Nulvaney and then C. Arnolt Smith and Philip Tost, top execs of the IRS-harassed parent firm, Westgate-California, were met with reports that the executives individually were "in conference" that probably would last a long time.

Meanwhlie a spokesman for UCB in Los Angeles said he was unable to confirm or deny that merger talks were under way. UCB Chairman Norman Barker Jr. and President Robert Barclay both were reported "on vacation," whereabouts unknown.

"It looks like we're moving," Buchahan said. "I just hope we keep moving...all I can say is that I'm a lot happier today than I was at one point yesterday."

The Abitibi-UPIU bargaining was being closely watched by the other major paper companies. Industry spokesmen have expressed hope that an Abitibi-UPIU settlement will set a pattern for the rest of the industry to follow.

Stock brokers and brokerage houses maintaining margin accounts with Californians are subject to California's usury law regardless of the location of the broker, California's Commissioner of Corporations, Brian R. Van Camp, has ruled.

The California State Constitution limits to 10 per cent per annum the charge which may be received from a borrower on any loan or forebearance of money. Exceptions to this ruling are banks and financial institutions listed in the provision, Van Camp said. Broker-dealers who make loans to their California customers are subject to this interest restriction, "but some New York houses are attempting to charge 11 or 12 per cent on their margin accounts,' he said.

Violations of this law could bring civil liabilities and criminal penalties as well as disciplinary action by Van Camp's department.

Gets Blame For Fuel Shortage

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.(UPI) -A Treasury Department energy expert said Thursday the fuel shortage is real and that the consumer, not the oil companies, was to blame. Dr. William A. Johnson, the energy advisor to Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, said that instead of encouraging oil exploration in the Gulf of Mexico and elsewhere, government has been giving the oil industry "disincentives" which discourage greater production.

He said one greatly needed incentive is permission to explore for oil in the Gulf of Mexico, off of Florida's coast. The U.S. Department of Interior last week held three days of hearings on the possibility of granting lease on the outer continental shelf.

"Increasingly, we hear allegations that the energy crisis is a hoax, that it is a contrivance by the oil industry and especially the major oil companies, to get higher prices segment of the industry out of business," said Johnson.

"In fact," he said, "the major oil companies, as well as other segments of the industry, are merely responding to the disincentives that we have created, the various policies that have made it uneconomical to drill for oil and gas and to build refineries."

Johnson said rather than blame the oil companies, citizens should recognize that, "in fact, we have created the energy crisis. We are all responsible."

He said Mideast nations, with 67 per cent of the world's oil, are starting to ration exports to the United States. He urged the energy commission to support oil exploration along the Florida-Alabama. along the Florida-Alabama-Mississippi Gulf Coast as a matter of national security, in case American relations in

Now Consumer S&L Deposit Loss Gets Blame For Brings CD Lid Lift WASHINGTON (UPI) - to short-term government se-

The government Wednesday curities and other instruments eased deposit restrictions on federally-supervised savings and loan associations as the industry reported its first monthly savings loss in more than three years.

In a move to make S&LS more competive with commercial banks for depositors' funds, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board raised the savings limitation on large denomination certificates of deposit (CDS) from 5 to 10 per cent. This means an individual association can increase the total amount of big CDS ($100,000 or more) from 5 per cent of the institution's liquid assets to 10 per cent.

FHLBB Chairman Thomas Bomar said the rule will allow S&LS to compete for large CDS at open market rates and will "provide a potential increase in the funds currently available for mortgage lend-

At the same time, the bank board announced that more money was withdrawn from ers said his talks with other S&LS in July than was placed on deposit - the first month this has occurred since January, 1970. A near doubling of the withdrawal rate, from $6.4 billion in June to $11.1 billion last month, was behind the $216 million net withdrawal figure as large numbers of S&L depositors shifted their money

The Register EVER STRIVING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost

The Register believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a voluntary basis rather than having any part of it distributed involuntarily.

Private Bureaucracies

province of bureaucracy.

This creature of human cunning seems to raise its fearsome head wherever three or more are gathered together. Whenever an enterprise gets beyond the "mom and pop" stage, you can expect to scent the familiar signs of straw-bossing, buckpassing, and shedding of personal responsibility that are the hallmarks of human organization. Business fights the cancer constantly. Outside of government itself, labor unions and professional associations are the prime victims.

At the present time a couple of cases of professional bureaucracy are coming to the attention of the courts. Four dentists in Phoenix are suing the American Dental Association. They allege that the Maricopa County Dental Society and the Arizona State Dental Society refuse to accept their dues. Grounds for the refusal, according to the suit, are that the plaintiffs did not include payment of dues into the American Dental Association. In a nutshell, the dentists wish to be members of the local and state association, but not the national association.

The other lawsuit pertains to four doctors here in Orange County. They are suing the county medical association on similar grounds. The California suit is aimed at prohibiting the county medical association from requiring payment of dues to the American the California Medical Association as a condition of membership in the county organization. They seek relief from the court on a claim that they

Government is not the sole are threatened with expulsion from the county association and that they need OCMA membership for professional reasons. Since the three associations are theoretically distinct from one another, the doctors allege that a dues agreement between them constitutes a combination in restraint of trade.

Commenting on the suits, the magazine "Private Practice" stated:

"Underlying both suits is the question of whether or not individuals in the professions can be compelled to financially support organizations which act as their representatives on questions of public policy without the authorization of each of the individuals through voluntary member-

In other words, a professional person such as a physician or a dentist believes he needs local association with fellow practitioners for business reasons, but he does not believe he needs membership in other associations. Can the local society require membership in such other associations as a prerequisite to membership in itself?

The question thus raised is similar to the right-to-work issue that now is being fought through the judiciary by the RTW Legal Defense Foundation; namely, whether or not a man must pay tribute to an unwanted organization in order to hold a specified job.

The ultimate issue in all these related cases is whether Medical Association and to a private organization can own an occupation. If the courts so rule, we will have private bureaucracies that control the means of livelifire with fire, and you probably read sometime back about the possibility of fighting pink bollworms wth other pink bollworms.

The bollworm is the animal that damages cotton growing in the southern San Joaquin Valley. Our cotton-growing friends in that area now advise us that the bollworm-versus-bollworm strategy is now

Moths by the millions are being released into the skies over the fields. The general idea is that the released bollworm moths, which are male, will mate with the natural female moths in the fields. The object is not progeny. To the contrary, the released male moths are sterile, having been radiated under cobalt. If the moth, so treated, can out-compete the natural males for the one-shot affections of the natural females, the result would be a decrease in the fertile egg supply-perhaps even zero population growth or less.

Love among this species of You've heard of fighting moth, we were informed, is primarily a function of availability. To be sure that the cobalted moths could measure up to the challenge, researchers tested them for durability. The test method was to glue sample moths to a string suspended from a balsa wood arm which rotates when the moths flaps its wings. Each rotation was then recorded.

> Researchers found that some of the test moths flapped the equivalent of seven miles a day. This accomplishment causes moth experts to believe that their cobalt specimen will be able to get to where he wants to go, maybe a little better than the cotton field variety. If successful, the program will mean more farm fiber at a price lower than would otherwise be pos-

It will be interesting to see strategy of their own. Remember the old saying, "You can fool a female part of the time; after that, whamo!"

STALIN CULT

Former Premier Nikita Khruschev attempted to make Stalin a "non-person" in the USSR, in order to promote his own popularity But the current leaders in the Kremlin have rehabilitated Stalin's memory, clearly showing that they intend to continue with Stalinist policies.

A handbook for communist officials asserts that Stalin "made a serious contribution to the development of the world communist and liberation movement." In June. 1970, a bust of Stalin was placed over his grave, which had formerly been virtually unmarked; in 1972 the 50th anniversary of the formation of the Soviet Union was celebrated on Stalin's birthday rather than the actual day. Stalin appears on television screens as a wartime hero and father of the Soviet peonot surprising, in view of the a government.

Stalinist policies which the Soviet leadership follows. The Kremlin has cracked down on the movement which had agitated for individual rights and personal liberty, virtually ending its organized activities. Many of its prominent members are in prison or publications have been suppressed.

Persecution of religion has also been stepped up. Four Baptists received undisclosed iail terms for teaching Christianity to children; leaders of the Ukrainian Catholic Church are under attack; Moslems in Turkmenistan have been subject to anti-religious propaganda; and a Buddhist scholar was sentenced to five years in prison. The present Soviet leaders now openly acclaim and imitate a ruthless dictator they know to be responsible for the deaths of millions of people. We should know better than to This new personality cult is try to make friends with such and lawyers claim confidentiality for conferences with their clients; ministers and priests claim the same confidence for confessions made to them; newspaper people make the same claim. Now the President of the United States in defending his refusal to disclose the statements he has taped of conferences with his staff members, uses the same claim of confidentiality. Is there a difference between these claims?

Answer: If there is any difference, it is that the President is the only one who is part of government. And since government is supposed, in theory at least, to be the people, there remains a question of whether anything in government properly can be kept from the people.

Of course, Mr. Nixon, as one long trained in government, recognized that members of Congress enjoy confidentiality in conferences with members of their staffs. Therefore, he claimed the same privilege for himself.

It would appear that in the latter instance, Mr. Nixon has as much right to keep secrets from the public as have the members of the Congress. There are those who say that if all government were conducted in the open, little would be accomplished. We believe, however, that too much is being accomplished in government, and at the expense of the people. Many of the things the politicians do are cooked up in secret and sprung on the people as accomplished fact before those who pay the bills (the victims of the acts) have opportunity to object. It seems to us that the people in government have overlooked one factor-the matter of property rights. If an individual is entitled to be unmolested in his private life, including his thoughts and peaceful statements, then he is entitled to confidentiality in all personal conversation. That would leave doctors and lawyers and the clergy with their presently recognized confidentiality. Newspaper people should enjoy the same protection with the requirement that they be held responsible for any false state-

Whether government people in the exercise of their jobs are entitled to confidentiality is questionable if one believes that whatever the government does is the people's business. Certainly, no one in government is entitled to protection from wrongful acts by confidentiality, just as doctors, lawyers, priests and news people are not entitled to be protected from responsibility for wrongful acts.

There ain't nothing wrong with this country - its the people we get to run it...

Nobody knows how many thousands of economic "experts" there are in the federal service, but we do know there are 100 senators and 435 representatives who approve the "experts".

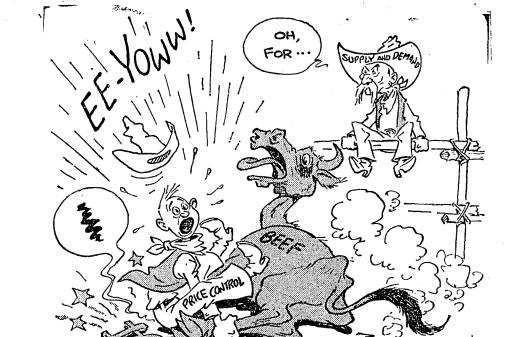

Last January 26 we inwhether the natural moths formed the public that the will counterattack with a Phase 2 control system would "increase inflation." If simple people like us can foresee this, why can't all this multitude of so-called experts figure it out?

Despite supposedly tough rules, prices are now soaring out of sight as Phase 4 begins. Money supply keeps growing in defiance of official curbs. yet, interest rates keep reaching record highs. These are hurting businesses and home buyers alike.

We have serious shortages of fuel and of food and there is little sign that they will be under investigation, and its easing soon. Profits and dividends are being squeezed to the point where new investments are discouraged.

And the wage restraints are causing workers to fume, threatening strikes and shutdowns as their living costs keep going up.

At last a few of these "experts" are beginning to look in different directions, even going so far as recommending that controls be taken off as quickly as possible. But they never reach this conclusion until they have caused almost complete chaos. They never seem to get it into their beans that the freemarket forces are the only ones that assure constant supply of beans on the table...

Ervin Committee

As Sen. Ervin is obviously familiar with the Bible, he is therefore familiar with "Judge not that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, first cast out the mote out of thine own eye. ." (Matt: 7: 1-5)

It is our feeling that the matter be referred to the experts being paid to handle such matters-the courts. We voters ask that Ervin and his committee go back to their offices and take care of matters of greater importance to our county. While they are witch hunting, prices are going higher and higher; interest rates are orbiting, and why isn't there enough baling wire for our farmers to bale their hay?

Why are the benefits for senators so lucrative-free haircuts, trips home, world junkets, etc., not to mention a generous pension after only five years! Why must a tax payer wait 10 to 15 years to receive $35 or so, such as myself? Why must we retire at age 65? Politicians can continue as long as they like. We have seen elderly senators fall asleep while Congress was in session. What is good for us tax payers should be good for our "public servants." And what about subsidy to farmers? We are footing the bill! There should be no

Slogans

I am constantly impressed by the naivete of some people. A letter appeared in Sunday's Register (Aug. 19) from Roger J. Land. He referred to the willful defacing of private property in somewhat glowing terms.

Is being united of sole importance? There is another side to united action. They call it a mob and mobs have been known to wreck devastation upon civilized men. "Get US United" is a catchy little slogan playing on the emotions of patriotic men, but rationally what does it mean? Do they want us to get united in bringing the yoke of an over-powerful government heavier upon our shoulders? Are we to get united in bringing shortages created by price freezes to our fellow countrymen? Being united with no purpose is certainly not an admirable goal.

I would be more inclined to be impressed by the original statement. A group of people believed enough in what they had to say to buy advertising space with their own hardearned money. They had enough integrity to let all who saw that sign know who it is

Although General Electric is by any measure a company with deep roots in the U.S. economy (87 per cent of our investment is in the U.S.), the company's international transactions make a substantial net favorable contribution to the U.S. balance of payments.

The company's favorable merchandise trade balance (excess of exports over imports) for the five years 1968 through 1972 amount to $2.1 billion. Add to the $325 million in dividends, interest, royalties, and payments from in-" ternational sources, and you find that this one firm contributed almost two and a half billion dollars to the U.S. balance of payments since 1968.

The critics who want to penalize U.S. companies who compete on the world scene seem to forget that there are powerful Japanese and European multinational firms, strongly encouraged by their national governments. Moreover, they are growing faster than their competition based in the U.S.

GENETICIST GENERATES AN UPROAR

Academic Freedom Slams On Brakes

By PHIL HANNA

Capitol News Service SACRAMENTO (Capitol) -Should human beings be studied without their consent?

This is a question which is causing controversy on the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley.

One group of the faculty says it is a violation of the academic freedom privilege to deny professors the right to study human beings even though findings of the study might be damaging to the reputations of particular religious, social or racial groups.

Other faculty members argue that these studies should be banned because they could be damaging to society. Faculty members agree that human study without consent probably wouldn't be so bad except they point to controversial research done by Professor Arthur Jensen at Berkeley who claims he has found there are genetic factors which influence the intelligence quotient differences between whites and blacks.

Jensen stands alone with his research. He has been the target of attacks by other prominent scholars on the grounds his results are wrong and misleading.

This is the gist of the prob-

Professors who negate Jensen's findings argue that academic freedom should not be extended to such investigations. Others, who may not agree with the controversial geneticist, want freedom to continue their work.

The issue will be subject of a statewide Academic Senate debate this fall. It has already been studied and argued for six months by the two opposing sides.

Almost a year ago, Chancellor Albert H. Bowker of Berkeley issued a policy "on the protection of human subjects." It was an attempt by the administrator to extend federal requirements concerning medical research to other study areas.

When the Academic Freedom Committee on the campus headed by Law Professor Philip Johnson got hold of the policy document it was concerned that it would have a "chilling effect" on what could be important research. Supporters of Bowker's policy are willing to amend the language but want some guarantee that subjects of the research will give "informed consent" to the studies.

Here is some key language from the chancellor's policy statement:

"Procedures designed to measure the characteristics of easily defined subgroups of a culture may entail risk if the qualities measured are ones which have positive or negative value in the eyes of the group.

"Even when research does not impinge directly on it, a group may be derogated or its reputation injured. Likewise, an institution, such as a church, a university, or a prison, must be guarded against derogation, for many people may be affiliated with, or employed by the institution, and perjorative information about it would injure their reputations and self-es-

Johnson is leading opposition to Bowker's policy. He believes that major studies could be crippled if the policy were enforced.

There is protection already, Johnson believes, in a faculty committee headed by Bernard Diamond "for the protection of human subjects." A wide variety of research can be censored by this committee.

Diamond admits his committee has not censored any- may be another matter." thing yet.

"It is my feeling," Diamond said, "and the feeling of some members of the committee that subjects are entitled to know they are being researched. It is up to the individual to decide. He has a right not to be researched." Johnson fears, that unless quelled now, the Bowker policy could become the basis of a national dictum. He points out that it was lifted in its entirety from a Stanford University policy written two years ago.

It would be possible the Bowker policy could negate research being done now which involves comparison of achievements between black and white students at Berkeley, Johnson believes. Before a school-wide study would be possible under the controversial policy each student would have to be questioned whether or not he would agree to be included in the study. Many would not agree to participate, the law professor believes.

"People have a right to protection from invasion of privacy, and against medical research that might be harmful. But to prevent data that derive from them because they don't like the conclusions Johnson is quoted as saying.

Weston I. Van Buren Los Alamitos Editor's Note: As much as we would like to accept Mr. Van Buren's understanding of I-8, as we once did, we can find no limitation on Congress' power to collect taxes. The specific purposes are so subject to interpretation that they can include almost any sort of expenditure. We concede that the Founding Fathers thought they were checking those who followed them, but experience demonstrates the futility of relying on the intent of the drafters.

Our editor did write the 16th amendment, but the figure 1 was dropped in the printing process.

Where was the hue and cry when President Kennedy authorized sale of $250 million in wheat to the Soviet Union in 1963, denied the support of an invasion of Cuba, granted a Presidential pardon to "Jake the Barber" factor after campaign donations, the use of the U.S. Armory for a Democratic fund dinner at $10,000 a plate? Who are these individuals who paid $10,000, and why? Alan Cranston allowed his office to be used by militants in Washington prior to a "peace" march. Why? Senator Birch Bayh had a $9,000 food tab paid by unions.

Where was the press? Why isn't the public told that Senators Sam Ervin, Inouye and Talmadge voted against the investigation of Bobby Baker? When Sen. Joseph McCarthy demanded certain Army papers, the liberal press (such as the New York Times), congressmen and senators screamed it would jeopardize the "separation of powers." Who is demanding the Presidential tapes? None other than the same group! Certainly there is someone around The Regisfer who recalls the above information.

'Dictum'

In a speech on April 30, Mr. Nixon said that on March 21 he had ordered a new inquiry into Watergate, and told those responsible for the investigation to report directly to him. It seems that Mr. Nixon's self-assurance is such that he did not deem it necessary to act out the role of a newly-awakened searcher after the truth, since he made no further inquiries and did not deem it necessary to inform even the investigators themselves of his dictum. On such quirks of the mind are based lie detector tests.

Likes House-Ghost Governor's Family

The daughter of a California medium has told Governor Linwood Holton she thinks her mother persuaded the ghost of a beautiful young woman that has been haunting the Governor's Mansion since the turn of the century to join her dead lover in heaven.

But Holton turned down Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Boeck's offer of further help should her mother have talked to the wrong spirit. The governor said, "We don't want to lose our ghost. We like her. The whole family likes her." Holton reported recently about Holton's haunting visi-

"The young woman ceased her crying and went up to join her man." the letter said.

But Mrs. Boeck did tell the Governor it is possible that the young woman her mother spoke to and the woman he hears are two different spir-

Fattening Junk Food Won't Help The Too Thin Teenager

By BARBARA GIBBONS

Dear Barbara: In school all my friends talk about your articles and how to lose weight. What can you do

Skinny Teen, Rochester, N.Y.

Dear S.T. - Nothing! In fact it's doubtful that anything can make you gain weight, unless of course, your "problem" is due to a physical or emotional disorder that prevents you from eating or assimilating food properly. Do consult your family doctor for a good physical checkup to rule out that "slim" possibility.

If you're in good health, quit worrying. There probably really isn't any such thing as a healthy person who is "too thin." Ask any insurance man; he'll tell you that the skinnies consistently outlive the fatties. Moreover, thin people are really "younger" than fat people of the same age in terms of appearance, mobility and general health.

But you're concerned with Right Now!

SKINNY GENES

In a recent issue, Family Health magazine points out that Harvard nutritionists have found that gaining weight is nearly impossible for constitutionally thin people. Apparently there really is a sort of "skinny gene" that destines some people to be skinny. no matter what. They simply don't have any extra fat cells in their body. For them, overeating is virtually impossible: The minute they've met their calorie needs they literally cannot eat another bite.

What should such a person eat?

The same things as everybody else -a balanced diet! Just like the chubby, a skinny should see to it that she puts away her meat, fresh fruit, vegetables, milk, all the healthy stuff that come first on a reducing diet.

In fact, the notion of stuffing down candy, cake, rich desserts, potato chips and other high-calorie greasy stuff in an effort to put on pounds can be disastrous. The chubby can snack all day and still have room for dinner, but the skinny can glom down only so much stuff and then she's done for the day! So, eat your important foods first, then see what you can do with snacks. A junk diet to gain weight won't work; it simply results in a bad complexion and stringy hair.

GOOD ADVICE

Harvard nutritionist Jean Mayer urges skinnies to forget about fattening themselves up and concentrate on making the most of their least. Good advice. After all, thin was never inner. Just think of all the pin-up photos you've ever seen of 1940 movie queens. Betty Grable's backside was plenty broad by today's standards. Today, even having bosoms are out of style; how can you go braless?

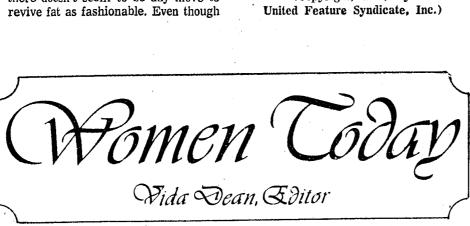

Despite all the interest in nostalgia there doesn't seem to be any move to because fat is antihealthy. But thin

So, make the most of your healthy good looks. Stand tall and enjoy the fun of adorning your fashion-right figure with the grooviest, way-out wearables. You can do it. Of course there are all sorts of fool-the-eye fashion tricks to put on pounds, but you might like to take a tip from Cher ("Sonny and Cher") and do the reverse. She emphasizes her slimness with long straight hair, slinky tube dresses with vertical slits or seams, and clunky clogs that add even more height.

Do your best to look your greatest. Take confidence in the fact that everybody else thinks you look sensational!

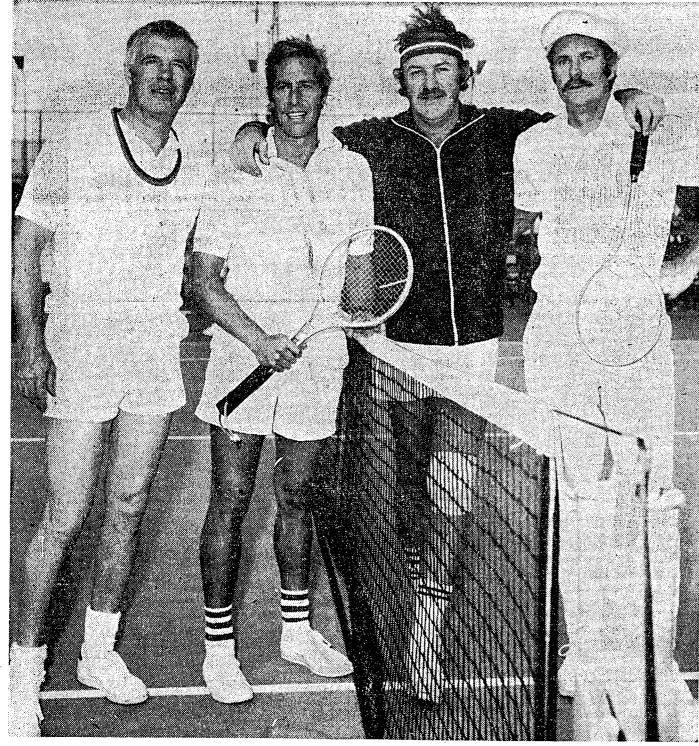

New ways with chicken! Try Coq au Vin, Cacciatore, Oriental Chicken and others that only seem fattening! Send a stamped self-addressed envelope and 25 cents to "SLIM GOURMET CHICK-EN WITH A FOREIGN FLAIR," in care of The Register, 50 West Shore Trail, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

WHEN YOU'RE A WIDOW-I

Lack Of Money Isn't Only Problem

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles on the troubles that beset women facing widowhood.

> By JANET ROHAN Copley News Service

Any wife qualifies-even if she isn't prepared. That is for widowhood-a tragedy that often gives little or no advanced notice. Besides the loss of a loved one, she is often left with financial and emotional problems.

Whether she likes it or not, her life-style is changed. Economic realities may force her to seek employment, leaving children with a baby sitter and working often at low-paying jobs.

Widows have their own unique problems-even though they are not unique in being a widow.

Age, children, financial status, friends and the ability to "make it on your own" all affect the widow.

Three widows, members of Parents Without Partners, and who shall be called Mary, Colleen and Ellen, spoke of their problems as widows and how they have coped with their new status.

Mary was widowed at the age of 26 when her husband was killed in an automobile accident. She was the mother of a 22-month-old child who "became very nervous and was hospitalized with convulsions" because he missed his father.

Her 6-year-old daughter reacted better, said Mary. "Maybe it was because she was with him. She feels he is better off where he is now."

The young widow said religion has been helpful to the family.

Because the family was well-insured, "I'm financially secure and won't have to go to work," she said.

Her problems in facing widowhood came from family and friends. They had moved in to the area about one month before Mary's husband was killed in the auto accident so the family had no close friends at the time.

In-laws were very helpful, but because they felt obligated, "they sometimes made things a bit difficult," said Mary. "However, they were well-intentioned."

Her biggest difficulty was with other women-a comment made by the other two widows. Mary said she felt like "a third wheel in many situations. For some reason, some women change their attitudes about you.

"They just weren't as friendly. Maybe they thought I was a threat."

Besides her religious beliefs, where she considers "death a happy thing," Mary has joined organizations, including her area chapter of Parents without Partners.

Another widow, who was in business with her husband and kept it going after he died, said she thought widowhood was the most difficult for a middle-aged woman.

"At middle age many families are not prepared for retirement and the widow has to make ends meet-often changing the family's way of life. No one likes to lower his standard of living," Colleen said.

Ellen became a widow at 44. Her husband had had a serious heart condition so his death did not take her completely by surprise. "Yet, you never can be prepared for the loneliness," she said.

Ellen has five children. The youngest is 10 and the older ones are married.

"When you become a widow," she said, "you are single, but you really aren't single. It's a different world.

"Friends try to be nice, but you still feel like an oddball."

When asked why some women were not as friendly to her after she became a widow, she said, they may feel uncomfortable with you. Maybe they feel you are after their husband.

Even though she worked before her husband died, she finds herself short of funds because her husband could not get insurance with his heart condition. Yet, finances have not been her biggest difficulty.

"I knew he would not live long, but I still get very lonely not being able to turn to him," she said. Her three youngest children have been helpful because they force her to face reality. "Having to attend their school func-

Sportswear Maker Claims Success Due To Fabric Selection

MILWAUKEE - Fashion really isn't what you think it is.

For most consumers, fashion begins with fabric, when the eye picks out that unusual plaid or that warm pastel from amid the bevy of clothes clamouring for attention in the department store hustle and bustle.

The magnetism of eye appeal causes the hand to reach out and feel. Finally, if it passes these two crucial tests, you remove it from the rack to see if it comes reasonably close to the latest "fashion." Think about it. · Indeed, Jack Winter, founder and president of Milwaukee-based Jack Winter, Inc., one of the nation's most respected producers of women's sportswear has given it much thought. There has never been any doubt in his mind about the importance of fabric as the key to his success. The company's results also show it.

The company's sales in the first quarter of the current year rose 51 per cent to $30,433,528. Profits were up to $2,406,753 (or $2.39 a share) from $896,897 (or 89 cents a share) a year

"Let's face it. In today's lifestyle, everything goes. The element that separates one manufacturer from the other is fabric. It's key," explains Mr.

Winter.

Mr. Winter's veritable obsession for fabric is stimulated still further by the fact that virtually every new line the company has introduced over the past several years has been a sellout. The buyers represent just about every leading department and specialty store in the nation and before they commit their store's funds, they've got to be convinced that the clothing they buy will be what Ms. Consumer really

The company's dedication to fabric may soon turn out to be one of its most important assets. With growing reports of an impending fabric shortage, many apparel producers are beginning to wonder whether they'll be able to fill their fall orders.

Not Mr. Winter. He explains-"Actually, we're in excellent position. Not only are we one of the largest buyers of fabric, we work so closely with the mills in both the development and design of new fabrics, that we really need each other."

Of the domestic textile industry's roughly $29 billion in sales, approximately 47 per cent is consumed by the apparel industries. Knitted fabrics. made primarily from synthetic fibres, represent the fastest growing segment of the market with about 20 per cent of the sales (compared with 15 per cent just three years ago.) Woven fabrics, which use mostly natural fibres like wool and cotton, although they enjoy sporadic bursts of popularity, have been on a steady decline.

Mr. Winter continues-"Frankly. we're a knit house. We've reached a stage in fabric development where we can develop knitted fabrics that have all of the aesthetic charm of wovens with a lot more functional qualitieslike cleaning and the wrinkle-free nature of knits."

For example, in previewing his fall line, Mr. Winter notes that the "very same plaids that were such a hot item in flannels ten years ago, are now being done in polyester doubleknits. You can hardly tell the difference."

Browsing through one of Winter's showrooms, you're also apt to see herringbones and other tweeds that, at first glance, you'd think were wool

With his knowledge of fabrics, built up over 35 years in the apparel business, many in the industry wonder why Jack Winter, Inc., never went into the mill business like many of his competi-

"To put it in the context of today's market situation," Mr. Winter explains, "we're not dependent on any one source for either our supply of piece goods nor are we shut out when one mill or another comes up with a new fabric design. It's the flexibility of the situation we like."

What about imports? According to Mr. Winter, "The storm has passed." With two devaluations of the dollar and the bilateral agreements with the far eastern producers, not only has the United States become very competitive, but it has actually become an exporter of textile fabrics.

While Winter buys almost all of its fabric needs domestically, Mr. Winter still goes abroad once or twice a year to see what the Europeans are doing new in design and in yarns. "They're much more willing to experiment over there than our mills are here," Mr. Winter notes.

Mothers-In-Law Organize 'Let's Be Brave' Club

ATLANTA (WNS) - The "Let's Be Brave" Club invited me to a meeting and, attracted by the title, I went.

You'll never believe who the members are and why they organized: Mothers - in - law every one of them. And they formed an organization because they "recognized we were in an intolerable situation that was not going to change and so we decided to draw nigh to one another for comfort."

Obviously they swore me to secrecy before they admitted me to the inner sanctum of their meeting room - a member's sun parlor. I could report on their doings, one woman told me, but if I gave their names or any identifying data about them they would be forced to leave town.

Decorating is such an opinionated field one might ask five very qualified designers how to "do" a specific room or area and conceivably receive five different answers. Many people are rather hesitant to call in a professional designer because they are afraid that the "end result" will reflect only the designer's taste and not the individual who has to "live" with it. Unfortunately, too often this is the case; however, this can only happen when you've chosen the "wrong decorator."

An overly opinionated designer usually states things like, "This has got to go," as he is looking at something you have no intention of parting with. We of Interior Creations pledge our abilities to assist you in creating a completed interior that is "really you," without compromise. When your friends come over, if the room is well designed, this time they won't say, "Oh, you've got some new furniture huh?" By contrast, their reaction (as well as yours) will be, "Wow! This is something else! I love it!"

Remember, good decorating just doesn't happen, it is the end result of creative ideas, meticulous selectivity, and detailed plan-
